“ I’ve been hesitant to share, but knowing my cousin Ashley, she wouldn’t have held back her favorite memory of me regardless... so here it goes 🤔... One night at a “local dance club” I was out with a group of girl friends. Knowing Ashley bartended there on occasion, I hadn’t seen her there that night. Fast forward, SHE WAS THERE, but for the fun, not behind the bar. It was a crowded place, a new and up coming band was playing that we all know now as Luke Combs, so I had not ran into my cousin YET. Rewind, I found myself in a fist throwing, hair pulling, throw down, tussle with another girl that had caused her own injuries, by being a mean girl, and bullying one my friends. I wouldn’t stand for it anymore, so I stepped up to have her back, to try to resolve the issue without throwing any hands. Next thing you know we were being ripped apart by 3 Mobile Police officers, carried out the first entrance over their shoulders. My opponent didn’t stop swinging and hit one of those very nice police officers in the nose, thinking she had gotten me! She was going in handcuffs no matter what! I was a bit nervous, I won’t lie, even though this girl had thrown the first swing at me, I thought I was going to the metro with her. NEXT THING YOU KNOW here comes Ashley Nicole out the front door yelling out “that’s my cousin, that’s my cousin! Don’t arrest her! She didn’t start it.” Ashley had been there the whole time & had witnessed the entire fight and said to me “ you was holding your own cousin, so I stood back and watched the show,” 🤔 the police let me go because of Ashley that night! She said “let me go buy you beer and let’s go back inside and enjoy the rest of our night” Back in we went! Walking through the same doors I had just been carried out of! No matter what, her family was her family and she wasn’t letting me take a back seat ride that night! I’m glad she made me take a picture after, because I’ll never forget...

“ Growing up Ashley was with us several days of the week. Our families were hostages of the 69 race team. 🏆 Her dad Randy and my husband Danny spent many hours daily working on that car so we could be #1 on Saturday nights. I would complain back then because that was a seven day a week event. Now I'm so appreciative of those days because I got to watch her grow into a beautiful young woman and a wonderful mom of three young ladies. Growing up with a brother and several male cousins Ashley was tougher than most boys but she also had a sweet and loving side that most of us got to experience. I loved her dearly and will miss her.

“ My favorite memory of my daughter is when her first daughter Ally was born she said that she would tell her that Dale Earnhardt Jr was her daddy, when she was 3 her PawPaw was watching the race and he came on TV and she said there's my daddy, I had to tell her he wasn't !! Ashley said if she could get her close enough to him at an event she would yell Daddy and he would have to come over and then she could get a chance to marry him, she loved him and Kenny Chesney !! Glad it didn't work and Dickie came into our lives !!
