“ Not only did I work with Cheryl for over 5 years and all knows her nursing compassion. I am going to touch on more personal memories of Cheryl. She was always available when I just needed to talk not only about work but also personal things. She was so funny. If I got mad at her she would let me stay mad for a day, then after that she did all she could to make me laugh. She always succeeded. She never was the type to micro manage. She always let me do my job without telling me how or when to do it. If I had an issue she would always work it out with me. She never questioned my ability to do my job, but was there with possible fixes if I had a problem. I sure am going to miss her. Although I retired a year ago I still thought of her often. I just wish I talked to her more often after I retired. May you rest in peace Cheryl. Love you and miss you.
