“ Karen and I have been best friends for many years. We were like sisters we got mad at each other but didn't last long. In the end we loved each other we laugh together had good times and cried together. We were always into something. And in the end we were both ill so it was hard for us to visit. But last time we were together we cried and hugged each so long and hard and our hearts just poured out our love for each other.
