Known for his big hugs, his quick wit, and his amazing cooking, Pat was a loyal friend, a loving husband, a wonderful father, and a bright presence in the lives of everyone he met.

His love for food and people was evident in his years as a restaurateur at The Bakery, where his skills as both a chef and manager impressed everyone. Pat treated his employees like family, and his generous spirit touched all who worked alongside him.

Above all, Pat will be remembered for the deep and charismatic love he shared with his wife, Katrina. They were the perfect match, and his devotion to her was an inspiration to all.

Pat and I were both Gallo employees working at Mobile Beverage Company and became great friends. Tried to track him down so many times to get back together and now so sad to see that will never happen. He made my life more fun.
